

Today's Speakers

Zainab Ahmadi

Masters-Level Training Intern, Switchboard

Sara Dadkhah, MPA

Training Officer,
Switchboard

Maya Wahrman, MSW, LSW

Training Officer,
Switchboard

Jasmine Griffin, MA, LPC

Training Officer,
Switchboard

Switchboard Throwback Thursdays

Did you miss a Switchboard webinar? Catch our top sessions, back by popular demand, now with Switchboard's Throwback Thursdays!

Our new Throwback Thursday series brings back our most-requested webinars, giving you a second chance to catch the insights you need. While recordings are always available, joining live offers a unique opportunity to ask questions and engage with fellow service providers.

As with all our sessions, this webinar is open to all refugee service providers across state agencies, resettlement organizations, and partner groups.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this session, you will be able to:

Recognize

several common challenges of case management while identifying strategies to set healthy professional boundaries with clients

Describe

ways to improve work-life harmony, including shifts in mindset and self-care strategies

Apply

new time management approaches and organizational tools to navigate high caseloads

Setting Boundaries with Clients

What is your "why" for doing this work?

making a difference Paying if forward

Help clients

Share experience

humans Advocacy Re

Humanity

meaningful trajectory) solidarity Dignity (providing

Empowerment HOPE Empathy feeling heard

Experience Helping others

Mission Making

Social justice Common understanding difference giving back Share the Growth Care Commitment to empowering others

Challenges in Case Management

- Large caseloads
- Complex client needs
- Paperwork requirements
- "Overworked and underpaid"
- Trauma-exposed work environments

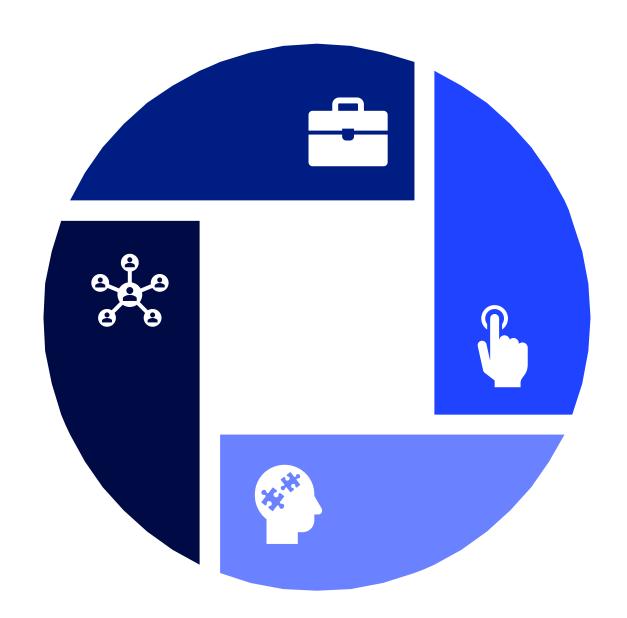

Types of Boundaries

Professional

Staying within your scope

Physical

Being considerate of personal space

Relational

Maintaining appropriate relationships with clients

Work-life

Taking care of yourself

The Importance of Boundaries

Build Trust and Establish Safety

Help Ensure Consistent Services

Empower Clients

Reduce Harm

Provide Legal Protection

Prevent Burnout

Setting Boundaries with Clients

1

Limit self-disclosure and sharing of personal details

2

Keep physical contact to a minimum

3

Stay within the scope of your role

4

Treat all clients equally, and consistently enforce rules

5

Do not borrow or lend money to clients, and set rules around gifts, food, and drink

6

Seek support from supervisors when needed

Setting Boundaries with Clarity and Respect

"I'm hearing that finding a new apartment is really important to you and your family. Unfortunately, I am not able to help with that. I would be happy to refer you to someone else who may be able to help."

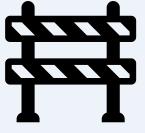

"I know that would help you a lot. I wish I could do that for you. But I am not able to. My job is to focus on ____."

Guidelines:

- Validate the concern
- Set the limit
- Provide an explanation
- Offer an alternative

Maintaining and Reinforcing Boundaries

- Give reminders
- Use consistent messaging
- Provide referrals when possible
- Seek support from colleagues and supervisors
- Document and follow up on any boundary crossings

Addressing After-Hours Client Needs

- Use a strengths-based approach
- Provide after-hours plans and resources
- Assess client's "urgency" carefully
- Stick with your work schedule and professional boundaries
 - Exceptions might become expectations

Improving Work-Life Harmony

Maintaining Work-Life Balance

- Make changes in mindset
- Only work your scheduled hours
- Do not answer phone/emails outside of work hours
- Look for role models
- Advocate within your agency

What are some other aspects of your identity outside of work?

Father and husband like friend

Dog Dad Mountain lover

Soccer enthusiast Veteran mother and grandmother

Immigrant

Third Culture Kid

Brother Tap dancer

Family Therapist Woman Sister Partner

Individual

Girlfriend

Parent

Tia/Auntie

Pawparent Human

spouse Artist Mother Wiferunner Mentor untie

Traveler Pastors wife

Hiker plant parent

Reader Friend Grandmother

teacher/trainer Learner gardening

language enthusiast

Military Brat

Trainer friend, family oriented

Father/Husband

Hobby

Grad student

Transitioning from Work Mode to Personal Time

- Write down lingering "to do's" before you leave work
- Make an intentional transition between work and home
- Use exercise or body movement to destress

Identifying Resources and Support

- Supportive supervision
- Professional mentorships
- Switchboard resources and technical assistance
 - Communities of Practice
- Personal therapy

Helpful Self-Care Strategies

Mind

- Focus on what you can control
- Celebrate small successes
- Do visualization exercises
- Practice gratitude and mindfulness

Body

- Exercise
- Get some sunshine
- Pay attention to nutrition
- Practice good sleep hygiene

Spirit

- Spend time with friends and family
- Connect to religious/ spiritual beliefs
- Listen to music
- Spend time in nature

What practical resources and/or strategies would help you maintain your workload?

Meditating

Spend time with Friends

Taking a mental break sticky note on my laptop of leftover tasks

Music therapy

Play games Working out

Gardening pres

Taking a break Good sleep

Travel/vaccation

Reading books
Stillness Cooking Singing Dancing

Training

Nature

Yoga

talk to my kids

Walking

reading Use Praying

Prayers

spend time painting

Walking in nature

Self care

service hard

Family time

weeks

meal Sleeping

Mukbang

Running

Walks Music and walking Watching tv shows

Spend time with family planning non-work events to look forward to

Journaling

Time management skills

Others holding space

Listening to birds outside

Meeting with friends

Advocating for a Supportive Work Environment

- Become a trauma-informed care "champion" at your organization
- Generate buy-in from leadership
- Find partners within your agency
- Be a role model and source of support for others

Navigating High Caseloads

Time-management and organizational tools

Prioritizing Needs

Create a comprehensive to-do list

Apply Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs

Assess deadlines and urgency

If tasks are equally necessary/urgent, alternate work times for each one

Complete easier items first, planning ahead for more time-consuming tasks

Break overwhelming projects into smaller tasks with deadlines

Managing Your Time Effectively

- Check with your manager for direct service hour expectations
- Consider scheduling 50-minute meetings instead of 60-minute meetings
- Schedule follow-up tasks in your calendar
- Re-balance your caseload with your supervisor once per quarter

Getting and Staying Organized

- Utilize to-do lists
- Customize a preexisting template or create your own tracking system
- Use your calendar!

Finding Time for Documentation

Prioritize your tasks

Set boundaries with clients

Schedule time

Limit
distractions

Don't let it pile up

Use structured templates

What strategies do you use to help you find time for the administrative side of case management work?

Sticky notes copy and paste templates day notes Calendar

Set up time for notes

Time Blocks on Calendars done case

Calendar

Nots

Spreadsheets

beginning Set reminders

Case note immediately set a day weekly/biweekly depends on the caseload Use calendar don't be afraid to ask for help

Questions?

Click thumbs-up to vote for others' questions

Learning Objectives

We hope you are now able to:

Recognize

several common challenges of case management while identifying strategies to set healthy professional boundaries with clients

Describe

ways to improve work-life harmony, including shifts in mindset and self-care strategies

Apply

new time management approaches and organizational tools to navigate high caseloads

Help us help you!

Scan the QR code or click the link in the chat to access our feedback survey!

- Five questions
- 60 seconds
- Helps us improve future training and technical assistance

Recommended Resources

Switchboard

- Archived Webinar: Organizational Approaches to Staff Care and Retention in Resettlement (2024)
- Archived Webinar: Balancing the Demanding Needs of Case Management (2022)
- Archived Webinar: "I Was Already Burned Out, and Now This..." Strategies for Staff and Supervisors to Mitigate Burnout, Vicarious Trauma, and Other Occupational Hazards (2020)
- Guide: Preventing Occupational Hazards by Promoting Organizational Resilience (2020)
- Podcast: How Can Supervisors and Organizations Support Staff Care? (2020)
- Evidence Summary: What works to reduce burnout and vicarious trauma among refugee service providers? (2020)

Center for Victims of Torture (CVT)

- Toolkit: Fundamental Skills for Self-Care (2021)
- Archived Webinar: Boundaries in the Electronic Age (2019)

Preventing Occupational Hazards by Promoting Organizational Resilience

Burnout, secondary traumatic stress, vicarious trauma, and compassion fatigue are all considered occupational nazards. These effects can result directly from working in certain professions, such as refugee service provision. The nternal culture and environment of an organization can increase a staff person's vulnerability to these occupational nazards, or these can enhance organizational resilience. This guide provides recommendations for supervisors and eaders to promote resilience and reduce occupational hazards among their team members.

What is Organizational Resilience?

An organization's culture and environment can make a big difference in the levels of distress that staff are feeling. Organizational resilience is the ability of an organization to survive negative events (such as COVID-19, financial hardship, or layoffs) while being as supportive or more supportive of staff and clients as before the negative events. This relates to individual resilience: a person's ability to adapt and survive adverse experiences without them negatively affecting key components of their character.

Organizations struggling with high rates of occupational hazards—burnout, vicarious trauma, secondary traumatic stress, and compassion fatigue also suffer high turnover and low staff cohesion. Without staff cohesion, team members have reduced ability to work together effectively, anticipate each other's needs, and support each other. Even when staff choose to stay at an organization after feeling the impacts of occupational hazards, their effectiveness within their job is likely to suffer. Organizational resilience can combat these effects.

Organizational resilience is essential not just for staff, but for clients. Refugee serving organizations want to ensure that people who have experienced forced migration receive the highest quality services they can offer. Service providers are among the first people that newly arrived families encounter as they begin to build new communities in the U.S. If service providers are

1

Stay Connected

Switchboard@Rescue.org

@SwitchboardTA

www.SwitchboardTA.org

@SwitchboardTA

The IRC received competitive funding through the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Grant #90RB0053. The project is 100% financed by federal funds. The contents of this presentation are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families.